It took about a minute for her to hear the words that will keep her behind bars, possibly until her death.

"I'm hereby sentencing you to a term of imprisonment for the rest of your life," said Taylor Circuit Court Judge Dan Kelly.

The courtroom was quiet.

Kathleen Wise, 61, formerly of 4203 Bengal Road in Campbellsville, was sentenced to serve life in prison on Friday

A civil suit alleging a local nursing home failed to supervise a convicted murderer has been transferred to federal court.

But the plaintiff in the case has requested that the case be transferred back to Taylor Circuit Court, where it originated.

Kathleen Wise, 61, of 4203 Bengal Road in Campbellsville, was indicted last July by a Taylor County grand jury and charged with the first-degree murder of her husband, Joseph Kenneth Wise. A jury found Wise guilty of the crime last month, and she was sentenced to serve life in prison on Friday. See a related story about Wise's sentencing in this issue.

A courtyard for 'Miss Frances'

Courtyard is dedicated to late council member, civic leader

CALEN MCKINNEY
reporter@cknj.com

She always said that when she told people she loved them, she truly meant it. On Thursday, family and friends who love her gathered to honor her legacy.

Campbellsville University is now home to the Frances Clinkscales Courtyard, built in honor of the late Campbellsville City Council member and civic leader.

The courtyard was dedicated Thursday afternoon, with several local officials and family members gathering to speak about how Clinkscales touched their lives. Clinkscales, a long-time civic and community leader known to many simply as "Miss Frances," died in February 2008 after an illness. She was 78.

Those who knew her, and those who didn't, often heard her say, "Hey, pretty pretty" and "I love you."

In February 2004, Clinkscales told the News-Journal that she truly really meant the phrases that had come to define her in the community.

"I really mean it when I say that and you would be surprised at how much something little like that can do to people," she said.

"It doesn't cost me anything to be sincere ... It's just part of me. It's just as much a part of me as breathing."

On Thursday, Campbellsville Mayor Tony Young said he first met Clinkscales when he played Little

Taylor County man charged with violating federal child pornography laws

Alleged victims were younger than 5

STAFF REPORT

A federal grand jury in Louisville has returned a 15-count indictment against a Taylor County man, charging him with violating federal child pornography laws that include the production and possession of child pornography. David J. Hale, United States Attorney for the Western District of Kentucky, announced the charges last week.

According to the indictment, between Dec. 18, 2009, and Nov. 28, 2010, on 14 occasions, Tony Edwin Davis, 49, knowingly employed, used, persuaded, induced, enticed and coerced two minor females younger than 5 to engage in sexually explicit conduct for the purpose of producing a visual depiction. The indictment includes one count of knowingly possessing child pornography on or about May 20, 2012.

According to an affidavit filed by a detective with the Federal Bureau of Investigation in support of a criminal complaint against Davis, the Taylor County Sheriff's Office contacted the FBI and Kentucky Police on Aug. 10, when a cell phone, formerly the defendant's, was found to contain child pornography images.

If convicted, Davis faces a statutory mandatory minimum sentence of 25 years in prison.

The maximum potential penalties are 60 years in prison, a $500,000 fine and at least five years' or as much as lifetime supervised release.

Arraignment is scheduled before Magistrate Judge H. Brent Brennenstuhl on Sept. 26 at 9 a.m. in Bowling Green. Davis is currently in U.S. Marshals Service custody.

The case against Davis is being prosecuted by Assistant United States Attorney A.

Spencer McKiness and is being investigated by the FBI, the Taylor County Sheriff's Office and Campbellsville Police.

This case was brought as part of Project Safe Childhood, a nationwide initiative launched in May 2006 by the Department of Justice to combat the growing epidemic of child sexual exploitation and abuse.

Led by the United States Attorneys' Offices and the Criminal Division's Child Exploitation and Obscenity Section, Project Safe Childhood marshals federal, state and local resources to locate, apprehend and prosecute individuals who sexually exploit children and to identify and rescue victims.

Teens check in to KSP driving academy

TCHS student participates

Thirty high school students from 21 schools throughout the state, including Taylor County, checked into the Kentucky State Police Academy in Frankfort recently for the annual "Drive To Stay Alive" program.

"Drive To Stay Alive" is a four-day defensive driving academy for teens that combines classroom studies and road course tests in an effort to reduce teen deaths on Kentucky roadways.

In 2011, there were 21,350 teen driving collisions resulting in 4,152 injuries and 63 deaths in Kentucky.

The "Drive To Stay Alive" program is designed to bring awareness to teen driving behavior, according to Sgt. Rick Saint-Blancard, commander of the Public Affairs Branch.

"The training includes hands-on driving maneuvers that take place on a professional driving course covering topics such as skid control, backing skills, multiple turns and lane interchange, evasive maneuvers, off-road recovery, and controlled braking," he said.

Saint-Blancard said classroom instruction includes seat belt safety, vehicle dynamics, crash causation, distracted and aggressive driving, and other safety initiatives. Students also receive training in how to present this information in their local communities upon their return home.

Kentucky State Police Trooper Jacob Fortney of KSP Post 2 in Madisonville talks with students attending the Drive To Stay Alive program at Kentucky State Police headquarters in Frankfort on Sept. 5. Fortney attended the program as a high school student and said it had a major influence on his decision to become a state trooper. From left are Trent Arnold of Muhlenberg County High School, Douglas Newman of South Floyd High School, Sarah Bivins of Calloway County High School, Rebecca Orberon of Taylor County High School, Rebecca Sawyer of Woodford County High School, Marci Beason of Franklin County High School, Ryan Simpson of Western Hills High School and Travis London of Barren County High School.

According to Saint-Blancard, the real potential of the D2SA program begins after the students return to their schools.

"The students are teamed with an experienced state trooper to spread the safe driving message to the student body in each school and to their community as well.

"The effectiveness of the program is based on the concept that a message conveyed by a fellow student carries more weight with other students and is therefore more memorable."

Students attending D2SA are from Taylor, Anderson, Barren, Breathitt, Calloway, Carroll, Floyd, Franklin, Kenton, Knott, Knox, Lyon, Muhlenberg, North Laurel, Oldham, Pulaski, Spencer and Woodford counties.

Twelve die on Kentucky roadways

Five were not wearing seat belts

Preliminary statistics indicate that 12 people died in 12 separate crashes on Kentucky's roadways from Monday, Aug. 27, through Monday, Sept. 3.

Seven of the victims were traveling in motor vehicles and five were not wearing seat belts. Single fatality crashes occurred in Fayette, Floyd, Hardin, Jefferson, Laurel, Madison and Metcalfe counties. The crash in Laurel County involved the use of alcohol. Two fatalities were the result of motorcycle crashes, one in Jefferson County and one in Rowan County.

The victim in Rowan County was not wearing a helmet.

Two fatalities were the result of ATV crashes, one in Knott County and one in Pike County. Both victims were not wearing helmets. The crash in Knott County involved the use of alcohol.

One bicycle rider was killed in Fayette County.

Through Sept. 3, preliminary statistics indicate that 481 people have lost their lives on Kentucky roadways this year. This is two less than reported for this time period in 2011.

Of the 377 motor vehicle fatalities, 215 victims were not wearing seat belts. Of the 57 motorcycle fatalities, 29 were not wearing a helmet.

Five of the six ATV fatalities were not wearing a helmet.

Thirty-seven pedestrians, one scooter/moped rider and three bicycle riders have been killed. A total of 82 fatalities have resulted from crashes involving the suspected use of alcohol.

Residents can contribute to highway safety by reporting erratic drivers to the Kentucky State Police toll-free at (800) 222-5555.

Callers will remain anonymous and should give a description of the vehicle, location, direction of travel and license number, if possible.

Bethlehem soars over home Eagles

Visitors use 23-point second quarter to pull away from Campbellsville 50-20

BOBBY BROCKMAN
sports@cknj.com

Three turnovers which led directly to scores paved the way for Bethlehem to soar past the home-standing Campbellsville High School Eagles 50-20 on Friday night at Dave Fryrear Field.

Quarterback Conner Ballard gave the visiting Eagles a 7-0 lead on a 28-yard pass to Taylor Ryan, one play after Campbellsville had fumbled on its first play.

Campbellsville responded with a 13-play, 67-yard drive and got within 7-6 when freshman Kendon Young caught a 24-yard touchdown from Zach Durham. However, the home Eagles could not get the pigskin down for the potential seventh point.

Ballard marched Bethlehem (3-1) down the field and found Ryan again from 50 yards out after a 24-yard TD to Collin Crawford was wiped out by a penalty.

Dra Thornton returned the ensuing kick-off 85 yards to pay dirt and Bradley Bates' point-after made it 13-13 with 2:15 still left in the opening frame.

Then, the shoe fell off for the host squad.

Ballard ran for three second-period scores, Joseph Lawson tallied a pair of conversions and Jonathan Whiteman a PAT and the rout was on.

"We tend to give up and have excuses when things don't go our way, especially early," Eagle head coach Dale Estes said. Estes' young Eagles got even more inexperienced in the second half when two runners (Thornton and Eric Lamer) missed the action with sprained ankles.

Ballard connected with Crawford for a score that counted in the third quarter and Lanham ran in from 16 yards out before Campbellsville could stop the 37-point run with Young's 74-yard TD reception from Durham with 3:12 remaining in the third.

The road will not get easier for Campbellsville (0-4) as the Eagles will play Class AA power Green County (2-2) on Thursday night (7:30) at Campbellsville University.

CU FALL SPORTS' ACTION

Tigers' soccer explosion continues, romp over Berea

While heavy rains took over during pre-game and the first half, Campbellsville University used a flood of goal scoring in the second half to pull away with a 7-2 win over Berea College at Finley Stadium on Wednesday.

For the third consecutive game, Swedish sophomore Gustav Carlsson posted a hat trick for the Tigers, scoring in the 18th and 15th minutes to give CU a 2-0 lead and adding his third goal in the 72nd minute. He now has 11 goals and three assists on the season for CU.

In the net, freshman goalkeeper Max Malachiyev was 0-2 on shots faced on the night. Aside from the two goals, the Tiger defense allowed only one other shot in the game while CU's offense fired off 31 shots, including 20 on target.

Campbellsville (4-0 which includes win over Bethel 5-0, Lawrence Tech 7-1 and Kentucky Christian 10-1) hosted Asbury on Saturday.

Lady Tigers drop MSC volleyball opener to LWC 3-2

Mid-South Conference volleyball action began Wednesday night, but not the way the Campbellsville University Lady Tigers would have liked it to start. Campbellsville dropped an error-plagued first set in Powell Athletic Center to the defending MSC champion Lindsey Wilson College 25-12, 19-25, 26-28, 25-19, 15-11.

Four Lady Tigers posted double-figure kills, led by 15 each from Daiane Souza and Haley Bechtel while Kelly Moyer and Laura DeGear had 14 each. Kira Stewart had 51 set assists.

Campbellsville led most of the fourth set, but was unable to close out the win. Up 15-10, CU quickly saw the lead flip as Lindsey Wilson went on a 12-2 run en route to forcing a decisive fifth set.

The Lady Tigers (3-1 with wins over IU-Southeast, Brescia and Asbury) return to Powell Athletic Center on Tuesday (7:00) to battle the University of the Cumberland. The junior varsity match will begin at 5.

Lady Tiger soccer edges Asbury University 1-0

Persistence paid off for the Campbellsville University Lady Tiger soccer team Tuesday as it went on the road to face Asbury University. Junior forward Jessica Ralph scored the lone goal of the game in the 85th minute to give CU a 1-0 victory.

The overwhelming majority of the night proved uneventful for both teams. CU had a total of 15 shots throughout the game, five being on goal. Asbury totaled four shots on goal, none of which made it past junior goalie Brandie Hagerman.

Head coach Thom Jones, had nothing but positive things to say about the outcome.

"It was a great game," Jones said. "We worked really hard and never gave up. In the last five minutes we were finally able to put the ball in the back of the net. That really shows character for my team."

The goal was Ralph's first of the season, and 23rd for her career.

The Lady Tigers, who opened the campaign with a 2-1 double-overtime home setback to Indiana Wesleyan, played at Bryan College on Saturday.

Tigers' JV football schedule begins Monday

Campbellsville University Fighting Tiger football will play a seven-game junior varsity schedule, beginning on Monday at Centre College — the exact anniversary of the Fighting Tigers first varsity football game against Centre in 1988.

The Fighting Tigers will host Ohio Midwestern College on Monday, Sept. 17. In October, CU will host Bethel University (Tenn.) on Oct. 1 at 4 p.m., followed by evening games against Georgetown College on Oct. 8 and Lindsey Wilson College on Oct. 15. CU will close its season with road games to Cumberland University on Oct. 22 and the University of the Cumberland on Oct. 29, both at 4:00.

Macie Spence is one of two signees that Campbellsville University Lady Tigers' basketball coach Ginger Colvin has already inked for the 2013-14 season.

Mrashi (Mash) Karumba is transferring from Union (Tenn.) University and will have only one season of eligibility when the Lady Tigers' season tips off on Nov. 2 at home vs. Miami-Middletown.

Ellen Sholtes will be the third Western Kentucky University transfer to play for Ginger Colvin and the Campbellsville University Lady Tigers over the last five seasons. Current CU player Courtney Clifton and NAIA Player of the Year Whitney Ballinger also started their collegiate careers at WKU.

Can't be off days when it comes to recruiting

A veteran college men's basketball coach once said, "recruiting is like shaving, if you don't it every day you get behind and don't look so good."

Ginger Colvin coaches the Campbellsville University Lady Tigers, so the same quote may not hold totally true. However, Colvin, like her predecessor NAIA Hall of Fame coach Donna Wise, keeps on top of new players 365, this year 366, days a year to better her nationally-acclaimed program.

Colvin signed three high school players during the season in Kentucky high school front-court products Lindsey Burd of Hart County and Kristen Jacob of Lexington Christian before adding Livingston, Tenn. guard Abby Miller.

The recruiting for the 2012-13 campaign was not over as Colvin picked up a pair of transfers in Union (Tenn.) University's Mrashi Karumba and Western Kentucky guard Ellen Sholtes.

Karumba, known as Mash, has only season of eligibility but Colvin thought the 5-9 senior brought some versatility to her upcoming team.

"She just fits our system," Colvin offered. "She's athletic, shoots the three and is very long."

Sholtes, who was Most Valuable Player in leading Mercy to the 2010 Kentucky State High School title, started the last 11 games for WKU.

"She just adds an exclamation point to our roster," Colvin said. "Her love for the game, experience and talent are all great assets that she brings to our team."

Colvin did not stop with this season's class and has already inked two standouts for 2013-14 in Monroe County guard Madison Clements and Montgomery County center Macie Spence.

"It's a special signing for me because Madison is the first player from my home town," Colvin admitted. "I know her family, I know her and I know the tradition of Monroe County basketball. We have a winner in Madison. Macie is a nice addition for our program. She has great size and shoots the ball well everywhere on the floor."

Courtyard: Dedicated to late council member, civic leader

League baseball with her son. But he said he didn't get to know her well until a few years before her death.

Young said he drove Clinkscales to many doctor's appointments in Elizabethtown and Louisville. She was on dialysis, he said, and would often require procedures when her port became blocked. He said she was more concerned about him having to wait for her than how she was feeling.

"She truly cared about all people and wanted the best for them," Young said. "She caused a domino effect. She would care for others and made you want to do the same."

Young said he and Clinkscales learned that they had a lot in common, and often settled all of the community's and world's problems during their car trips together.

Since becoming mayor a year ago, Young said, he has searched for a way to honor Clinkscales. He said he worked with John Chowning, vice president for church and external relations and executive assistant to the president at Campbellsville University, to build a courtyard to honor her.

The courtyard sits between CU's School of Nursing and Education buildings, which Young said is fitting.

"I truly believe these two schools represent what Ms. Frances would wish for everyone in our community, that all children and young people receive the education required to allow them to be as successful as they want to be and to work in a field of work such as she did, nursing, where she shared her passion for people.

"I believe Ms. Frances would want all of us to know that we all can achieve whatever we want, regardless of any obstacles or hardships we may face. For this is what Ms. Frances did. What a great example she was, and is, and shall be for all people who shall pass through this courtyard and perhaps pause for a moment of reflection about a great community leader, role model, mentor and friend."

CU President Dr. Michael Carter said Clinkscales was a person who gave tremendous service to the Taylor County community and Campbellsville University.

Carter said he can't think of a more community-minded person who has such a spirit of service and a heart of love. He said the entire crowd likely has warm and precious memories of Clinkscales.

"She was an individual who always made time for others,"

Carter said Clinkscales helped secure the first endowment grant to help fund CU's School of Nursing. He said she many times spoke to former U.S. Rep. Ron Lewis and encouraged him to not forget CU. He said Clinkscales was instrumental in seeing the school come to fruition.

Carter said the school now has record enrollment, with more than 100 students enrolled and working toward a nursing career.

Fighting back tears, Clinkscales' granddaughter, LaQuita Goodin of Campbellsville, said her grandmother dedicated her life to serving others.

"She truly loved this community," Goodin said.

Goodin said she is blessed and honored that a courtyard has been named for her grandmother.

"I know she's looking down on us," she said, "[And is proud] that we're continuing her legacy."

Clinkscales was a longtime and current member of the Campbellsville City Council when she died. She was also a member of Greater Campbellsville United and many other civic organizations.

Clinkscales spent many years of her life caring for others as a nurse.

She graduated from Campbellsville's then all-black Durham High School in 1949 and went on to Howard University in Washington, D.C. to study nursing.

Clinkscales worked as a nurse in West Virginia, New York and Washington, D.C. She then returned to Kentucky and worked at Ireland Army Hospital in Fort Knox for 31 years, beginning in 1955.

Some of Clinkscales' other community and civic involvement included serving on the Lake Cumberland Redevelopment Services Board, Senior Citizens Board, Kentucky Parole Board, Habitat for Humanity, Campbellsville University Advancement Council and the Campbellsville Family Resource and Youth Services Council. Clinkscales also spent her time lobbying for dialysis research and funding.

In June 2007, Clinkscales told the News-Journal that she suffered from complete kidney failure and underwent regular dialysis treatments at the Taylor County Dialysis Center. She was instrumental in beginning the center.

Clinkscales also served as a DaVita Patient Citizens ambassador, one of many around the world who work to improve the quality of life for dialysis patients through education and advocacy.

Part of her duties as an ambassador included testifying at Congressional meetings before lawmakers. One of those lawmakers, Lewis, was a close friend of hers.

Murder: Leads to suit

plaint was filed alleging that Wise isn't the only person responsible for his death.

On June 7, Louisville attorney Paul Casi II filed a complaint on behalf of Greg Wise, who is serving as the administrator of Mr. Wise's estate.

Listed as defendants are several Extendicare Homes Inc. subsidiaries, including Medco Center of Campbellsville, and Karen Moore, who is a registered nurse and the director of nursing at Medco. Extendicare is based in Milwaukee, Wis.

The complaint states that Wise was employed at Medco as a staff registered nurse and assistant director of nursing.

According to the complaint, Mr. Wise died June 8, 2011, from what appeared to be natural causes. However, routine toxicology tests later revealed he had consumed a fatal dose of morphine.

On July 21, 2011, the complaint states, an audit performed at Medco concluded that morphine, a controlled drug, had not been properly destroyed at the facility. The complaint also states that officials weren't able to properly account for morphine that had been delivered to Medco.

The complaint states that Wise gave Mr. Wise the drugs that caused his death and that she got them while working at Medco. As such, the complaint alleges Medco was negligent in supervising Wise, which was a large factor in her husband's death.

The complaint alleges that Extendicare and its subsidiaries were negligent in overseeing the operations and management of its facilities. Moore, the complaint states, failed to supervise Wise, which led to her access to morphine.

Greg Wise is seeking punitive damages, compensation for Mr. Wise's lost ability to earn money and compensation for funeral and burial costs and physical and mental pain and suffering. He has also requested a jury trial.

On July 5, notice was filed at the Taylor Circuit Court Clerk's office that the complaint has been removed from circuit court proceedings and transferred to the U.S. District Court's Western District federal proceedings.

According to federal court records, the plaintiff has filed a motion to have the case transferred back to Taylor Circuit Court.

That motion alleges that Medco violated federal and state regulations by failing to implement and maintain a record keeping system to prevent diversion of the controlled substances kept at its facility.

The plaintiff argues that there are no federal questions involved in the case and asks that a judge order the case back to Taylor Circuit Court's jurisdiction.

In its response to the motion, Extendicare's attorneys, M. Brandon Faulkner and Tiffany L. Phillips of Lexington, allege that Moore is the only defendant named in the case who is from Kentucky. As such, according to the motion, Moore was added as a defendant to the complaint to purposefully defeat the issue of Taylor Circuit Court keeping jurisdiction of the case. The motion states that under no theory can Moore be held liable for Mr. Wise's death.

"While Mr. Wise's death was tragic, it was not the result of any negligence on the part of Medco of Campbellsville or its employee Karen Moore."

Any response to Extendicare's response was due on Friday. As of Friday afternoon, no response had been filed.

A federal court judge will review the motions for and against keeping the case at the federal level. Oral arguments could be ordered or the judge could simply sign an order with his or her decision.

As of Friday, no court dates had been set in the case and a judge had yet to rule on whether the case will stay at the federal level or return to Taylor Circuit Court for disposition.

Casi did not return a phone call to comment on the case. Phillips declined to comment for this story.

In June, Nelda Beard, administrator of Medco, referred comment on her and Moore's behalf to a statement made by Mike Perry, area vice president of Extendicare.

According to Perry's statement, which was released in June, "While our sympathies go out to the family of Mr. Wise, we believe that there is no factual or legal foundation for this lawsuit against Extendicare or Medco Center of Campbellsville. This lawsuit has nothing to do with the care or services provided by our center, and Mr. Wise was never a resident there."

"Medco Center of Campbellsville is an excellent skilled nursing center and recently received a deficiency-free survey by the Kentucky Office of Inspector General. We are confident that neither the center nor Extendicare played any role in Mr. Wise's passing."

"This lawsuit is emblematic of the unfortunate tidal wave of meritless litigation against skilled nursing providers that has become the norm in the commonwealth of Kentucky. We intend to vigorously defend this lawsuit with all of the resources at our disposal."

Wise: Gets life for husband's murder

after a jury found her guilty last month. Jurors said she killed her husband with a morphine overdose.

Wise's trial took about seven hours and jurors took 20 minutes to find her guilty of murdering Joseph Kenneth Wise. It took jurors another 10 minutes to recommend that Wise receive a life sentence for her crime.

And on Friday, Wise was in court to see if Kelly would follow the jury's recommendation. Judges don't have to follow a jury's recommended sentence, though they often do.

After finding her guilty, jurors had the choice of recommending that Wise serve anywhere from 20 to 50 years in prison or life.

Dressed in white inmate clothing on Friday, Wise stood before Kelly with her attorney, William Butler of Louisville.

Before announcing his sentencing, Kelly asked Butler and Wise if they would like to make a statement. They replied that they don't. Wise showed no reaction to Kelly's sentence. Afterward, Kelly asked if Wise had any questions about the sentence.

"No sir," she whispered and she was escorted out of the courtroom, back to her cell at the Taylor County Detention Center.

Though she received a sentence of life in prison, Wise will be eligible to appear before a parole board after serving 20 years of her sentence. She will be 81.

Wise was indicted in July 2011 by a Taylor County grand jury and charged with the first-degree murder of her husband. She pleaded not guilty to the crime. The prosecution did not seek the death penalty.

According to witness testimony, Wise admitted to law enforcement officers that she put liquid morphine into her husband's drinking water on June 7, 2011. He died the following day. Butler said throughout the case that Wise has denied killing her husband.

Wise is a former registered nurse at Medco

Nursing Home, now Campbellsville Nursing and Rehabilitation Center.

The criminal charge against Wise stemmed from a toxicology investigation into her husband's death. Mr. Wise died June 8, 2011, from a supposed heart attack. Routine toxicology tests, however, revealed he consumed a fatal dose of morphine. His cause of death was changed to that and ruled a homicide.

Court records state that a toxicology report found 5,738 ng/ml of morphine in Mr. Wise's blood and 1,359 ng/ml in his urine. Normal therapeutic ranges, according to court records, are from 10 to 80 ng/ml.

Commonwealth's Attorney Tim Cocanougher, one of two prosecutors in the case, said after Wise's trial that he was pleased with the verdict.

"An intentional murder verdict is a hard verdict to get because it's such a tough penalty," he said last month.

And Cocanougher said he agreed with the recommended life sentence.

"Since his life was taken, it's certainly fair that she be sentenced to life in prison," he said.

On Friday, Cocanougher said he agrees with Kelly's decision to follow the jury's recommended sentence.

Butler said last month that he was shocked to hear Wise had been found guilty.

"The jury certainly didn't see the facts the way the defense saw the facts. I guess the verdict speaks for itself."

Butler said Wise loved her husband and simply wanted some peace from him screaming and yelling at her. Butler, who did not present any witnesses during Wise's trial, said he will very likely file an appeal in the case. Butler did not return a phone call on Friday to comment on Wise's sentencing. As of Friday, an appeal had not yet been filed in Wise's case. Cocanougher said he anticipates an appeal to be filed in every case where a prison sentence of 20 years or more is rendered.
